At the polls in the Woburn school committee won by 196 votes over City Clerk William E. Kane.

The school committee is a member of William H. Hensley, former Woburn mayor and Gov.

former Charles F. Hurley's campaign manager. He will be opposed in the November election by John J. Connelley, who was unopposed for the Republican nomination.

Mayor Devitt was re-nominated, leading both of his opponents, William J. Connelley and Laura Coyne. The final vote was Devitt 5250, Hurbell 4782 and Coyne 386.

Coyne was eliminated and Hurbell will oppose the present mayor in the next year.

Mayor Voke was the winner in a runaway Chelsea primary ballot. It was doubtful this morning whether the city would have a runoff election, because of the large number of voters failed to insure his name being placed on the November ballot.

James Albert and John Houghley, who was nominated for Chelsea mayor, heard in Ward 2 while Alderman Joseph Margolis and David Newman served the Board of Aldermen.

In Ward 4, School Superintendent H. Raymond Carter and Asst. John were the nominees for the school authority. Aldermen Martin H. Tansone and Alexander Fink were nominated for aldermen.

In Ward 5, Mrs. Mary K. Melzer was nominated for the school board, with James F. Towler, while the nominations for aldermen were Aldermen Frederick J. Ryan and George J. Ryan.

In Midlen, Mrs. Marjorie Jordan was one of the successful six who will have their names on the ballot for school committee.

Fires Twice to Halt Speeding Student

Edward Frazier, 21, of Swampscott, Mass., Tuftsmouth College sophomore, was arrested here today after pursuing police had fired two shots into a rear fender of his automobile. Frazier, junior weld, was spending at 70 miles an hour.

Frazier faced fifth grade he was in a hurry to get back to class.

INCREASE SCHOOL BOARD
Former Representative Alf R. Smith, of Park, stated that if elected he will seek legislation to increase the membership of the Glades school Committee and to lessen the power of the individual members of that body.

"I believe that the affairs of the schools should be administered by the superintendent and his assistants without interfering with the members of the school committee," he said. "There will be no more selling of jobs."

Former Mayor Malcolm F. Smith, of Park, stated that his candidacy has received the unanimous endorsement of the members of the executive board of the Glades Education Association, the Glades Teachers Association, the Womans Republican Club and of the Sports Club, Inc.

Timilty Orders Quiz of Fraud 'Higher-up'

Identity of 2 Others In Charlestown Vote Probe Is Known

Police Commissioner Joseph P. Timilty today ordered the repeated quizzing of the man in the conspiracy to pad the Boston registration rolls taken into custody for questioning. The so-called "higher-up" was singled out by the finger of the law as a result of the peculiarities in the handwriting of three of the signatures who have been linked with the Charlestown phase of the vote fix.

Meanwhile, the Boston Evening American learned that the identity of two more members of the inner circle of conspirators has been ascertained by investigating officials. As the number of known "higher-ups" in the winter vote making plot was increased from five to seven, it became known.

That one of the new figures connected with the fraud is an alleged financial lacker of one of the majority candidates. That the second is a close relative of the man in whom the entire false registration program is ascribed.

The head "ghost" has been established, openly boasted he knew the whole inside story of the Charlestown vote padding, but wouldn't be bothered talking about it.

This information was procured by Inspector Len Twinn, Arthur O'Shea, Joseph Callahan and William Bonner, four of the eight officers specially assigned to the Charlestown investigation by Timilty.

IDENTICAL REPORTS

The commissioners moved against the picture today in reports of identical handwriting reports from Albert J. O'Brien, a well-known law expert, and an important witness in the Lindbergh murder trial, and Elizabeth MacGowan, attorney and penmanship expert.

It was disclosed at the same time that the experts have been permitted to hand write the alleged "top man" and five of the existing conspirators. Authorities are making reports of the other marks penmanship.

Miss Catherine Ryan, executive witness in the motor vehicle business, is aiding Miss McCarthy in examining signatures. It was announced.

While all this was going on, the newspaper learned yesterday that Timilty had requested Lieutenant Andrew Marchand to take command of a detachment of six constables to guard the registration office.

One of these men is a current action officer in a New York winter school in a House of Correction, and in the fourth is employed in the office of the registration, it was said.

At the same time, it was learned that the police have definitely excluded the five police officers who were named and listed by the alleged conspirators last January.

Twenty men, possibly hoodlums, are in the vicinity, that they are the cause of fraudulent registration, it was learned.

It is reported in the state capital that the police have been returned to the city, and the police are being paid at address.

'Bargain Sale' Scene at Vote Hearing

Part of the throng of men and women called to testify at the vote fraud hearing in City Hall annex. Each person summoned to appear had a slip with his or her name on it. These were turned in to Patrolman Patrick Gannon so that the women could be called later individually. When Gannon started to collect the slips, the above scene, resembling a basement store bargain day, took place. Nine women fainted in the crush and were given first aid.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP).—Harold Russell Ryder, 41, once called "The Boy Wonder of Wall Street," appeared in the lineup at police headquarters today, charged with violating his parole from being a broker.

Ryder, formerly with the brokerage firm of Moody & Company, which failed some time after the market crash of 1929, was charged with violating his parole from being a broker.

He served two years and seven months and was paroled with the stipulation that he stay out of the securities business until 1931.

"You were in a Broadway brokerage office yesterday at the time of your arrest, weren't you?" asked Lieutenant James Pike.

"Yes," Ryder said calmly. "What were you doing?"

"I was trading," Ryder said. He was released on his own recognizance.

Plan 3 Probes In Air Crash Killing 19

Unidentified Bodies
Dug Out of Snow
Covered Wreck

BALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 20 (AP)—Federal and Airline officials prepared today to open three separate investigations into the most disastrous crash in American history.

Identification of the 19 dead bodies began at Kewanee, Wis. The bodies have been taken to hospitals, over 400 miles away, to be examined. They had been flown over a wide area when a United Airlines transport crashed into a mountain peak 80 miles east of here in a terrific snow Sunday night.

A BOARD EXPECTED
A Federal board, expected by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, is scheduled to meet here Saturday to investigate the disaster. The U. S. Postal Department and United Airlines also will conduct their own inquiries.

At the crash scene, police and firemen, under direction of M. A. Wenger, of Salt Lake City, searched through drifts of snow and wreckage for the remains of the 19 passengers and crew. The bodies were found in a line, as if they had been thrown out of the cabin.

Remains of the United States liner passengers were arriving at Kewanee to claim their dead, but many bodies are so badly mangled identification is being withheld to the complete until tonight.

CABIN TORN TO BITS
Except for the rear of the 21-passenger transport, was destroyed. The cabin was torn to bits. Bodies were scattered over a wide area. The two engines were buried 100 yards ahead of the wreckage. The wreckage was scattered over a wide area.

Child Prodigy Goes
Into High School

CORVALLIS, Ore., Oct. 20 (AP)—Alexander Hall Jr., wanted to read and write the multiplication tables when he was four and now barely nine years old he is a high school freshman.

His father, a member of the Oregon State College, assumed him to his Pacific college class in harmony at six. Alexander was never advanced through the school.

He played with his father in radio broadcasts and plays really at the world's great companies with an artistic sympathy and understanding.

"It seems to me highly important that a child be permitted to make progress at his own desire and at such speed as is suited to his individuality," Hall Sr. said.

Make Newsprint
From Gumwood
SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 20.—Dr. Charles Herty announced today perfection of a process for making paper of newspaper from gumwood, a characteristic type of Atlantic and Gulf coast evergreen.

He described it as "the most important development from our laboratory since the day we made our commercial experimental run with pine pulp at the Forest Products Laboratory, about four years ago."

To the fourth, he added it means addition of 10 per cent more to the already vast resources for the manufacture of paper, particularly newsprint.

The white-haired Savannah chemist, who perfected the process for making newsprint from gumwood, pine pulp and black gum paper is reported to be the average of 17 commercial varieties of gumwood, which he has found to be the best.

CORVALLIS, Ore., Oct. 20 (AP)—Alexander Hall Jr., wanted to read and write the multiplication tables when he was four and now barely nine years old he is a high school freshman.

His father, a member of the Oregon State College, assumed him to his Pacific college class in harmony at six. Alexander was never advanced through the school.

He played with his father in radio broadcasts and plays really at the world's great companies with an artistic sympathy and understanding.

"It seems to me highly important that a child be permitted to make progress at his own desire and at such speed as is suited to his individuality," Hall Sr. said.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 20.—Dr. Charles Herty announced today perfection of a process for making paper of newspaper from gumwood, a characteristic type of Atlantic and Gulf coast evergreen.

He described it as "the most important development from our laboratory since the day we made our commercial experimental run with pine pulp at the Forest Products Laboratory, about four years ago."

To the fourth, he added it means addition of 10 per cent more to the already vast resources for the manufacture of paper, particularly newsprint.

KELLEY TO PLAY FOR SHAMROCKS SUNDAY

AUSTEN LAKE

Yale's Kelley Prints A Public Confession

IT MAY BE HERESY TO A GREAT YALE myth, but the football wisecracks credited to Larry Kelley do not seem funny when re-printed in a current issue of a National weekly. But humor has never been standard. It is a matter of individual taste and ear. A great many people like Ed Wynn's fire hose wit. It makes them laugh and has a radio value of $5000 per few minutes.

In the day when Kelley was playing inspired football for Yale and convulsing the Sunday morning sport-page public, there seemed to be an artificial quality in his quips. He confesses as much by writing, "Down in New York a Yale graduate named Martin Gould thought up some of my wisecracks and passed them on to the sport writers. And the sport writers added a few of their own."

AUSTEN LAKE

THEY ARE THE BEST OF US, the sport writers added a few of their own. The wisecracks were passed on to the sport writers. And the sport writers added a few of their own. The wisecracks were passed on to the sport writers. And the sport writers added a few of their own.

Casey's Fatal Curse

CASEY STENGEL, NOW MENTIONED FOR McKee's vacated job with the Bees and another sport comic who used to release live birds from under his cap and ragdoll loose-jointedly while fielding, golfing, balls, once complained that the public would not let him be serious. The people regarded his most innocent act as a great masterpiece of hilarity. "It's the fatal curse of being a funny man," said Casey, who at heart is a sensible, serious gent.

IN HIS SEVERAL OPPORTUNITIES to observe Kelley at close-up range during games, he displayed the same average docile manners and good sense of any other American school kid. My impression was that he was slightly shy. His handclasp was quick and he ducked his head and averted his eyes.

Kelley's Brains Saved Him

IN MY SEVERAL OPPORTUNITIES to observe Kelley at close-up range during games, he displayed the same average docile manners and good sense of any other American school kid. My impression was that he was slightly shy. His handclasp was quick and he ducked his head and averted his eyes.

He hits it when it writes. "Maybe the fact that I had an Irish grin on my face, maybe the second E in Kelley, or maybe my cockiness is the reason why they picked me as the stooge instead of somebody named Percy Cabot or Alex Wakovsky."

The Kelleys Come Too Seldom

THE FAULT WITH COLLEGE FOOTBALL is that it lacks laughter and the easy relaxation of other sports. The laughing, hilarious type is discouraged. The attitude is grim and defeat is reckoned as a pretty serious calamity. Hence the "Death" Dooley and Larry Kelley types have been rare, and sport writers have seized hungrily on them as a means of enlivening statistical manuscripts. For, of all our games, football is most lacking in player personality. In football a generation is a span of three years, so a customer who has been going to the games for, say, 15 years has seen four generations of heroes pass into that favorite figure of speech, the drifting mist of time. No sooner has a Kelley, a Cagle, a Booth, or a Nevers been created as a sport page celebrity than he becomes one of that other favorite figure of speech, the vanishing horde. And with him goes the sport writer's notebook of carefully stored anecdote, achievement and record.

The Kelleys come too seldom.

This would be no place for a Harvard movie magazine. There isn't a woman in a crowd of Dartmouth's sports.

The team's strategy was to play a fast, aggressive game, and to use the "hocus-pocus" strategy to defeat Harvard.

Harvard's New Power Meets Big Green
Dempsey As Referee In Mat Battle

By JACK CONWAY

IT WILL be a powerful Harvard football team that will flash into action against Dartmouth at the Stadium on Saturday. Dick Harlow's eleven proved in its 0 to 0 game with the Navy at Baltimore last Saturday that it possesses more ability than any Harvard team in years.

It has been along, uphill struggle for Harlow at Cambridge, but his patience and expert coaching ability are finally getting results.

Harvard has not the best football material in New England. I have seen Holy Cross and Boston College play this fall, and it is my opinion that both of these colleges have superior football material to Harvard.

Harvard, however, has a perfectly coached team. It is as well coached eleven as there is in the East. Its players have been schooled in the fundamentals of football, and are versed in the modern open style game. They won't have to ask favors from any team they play this year.

There is a fine spirit in Harvard athletics. I find that this condition creates a competitive fire that gains victory.

The young men who are playing football at Cambridge are of the opinion that can defeat any college outfit they may be called upon to meet. This is the right kind of spirit to have in a team before an important game.

Many Changes In Hockey Personnel

English Dog Fans Bet $50,000,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP)—You think the people in this country gamble? How, how?

Why, he said, controlling his nerves, do you know how much will be bet on the totalizer (the outside bets) at my eight track this year? About ten million pounds.

That's a substantial sum, isn't it? And what totalizer do you get out of that? He was asked.

Oh, he said, only six percent. He said, but that's not a very large sum, is it? He said, no, it isn't. He said, but it's a very large sum for a dog fan. He said, yes, it is.
